

Chamber of Eco Commerce (CEC)

Eco Innovation Marketplace

The Eco Commerce Hub is located in Atlanta, Georgia, a convenient gateway to a fast growing international network of Eco Commerce Hubs. Regional Eco Commerce Hubs are vibrant must visit business to business, and business to investor markets. Each Hub delivers a diverse range of solutions, deal-flows, projects, companies and experts. A Hub is a place for the experts, leaders and learners to meet, collaborate, learn, trade, network, negotiate and conduct business 'under one roof'.

Companies and organizations, small and large, can efficiently, effectively and productively find the latest solutions, and gain immediate competitive advantage for their business and stay abreast with the latest developments in Eco Commerce.

CEC brings together worldwide buyers and sellers from every industry, and make speed-to-market solutions easily available to the buyers. CEC plays an integrated role in structured global knowledge and technology transfer, education, training, promotion, and support.

CEC stakeholders are the leading experts in Eco Commerce. These companies and individuals have, through agreement with CEC Global, committed to providing their solutions, products and services to suppliers and end-users of technology.

CEC brings together experts, leaders, and learners from around the world. CEC generates and manages unique partner projects and organizes a wide range of events, including conferences, congresses and meetings. CEC's portfolio of eco innovations, products, services and events serves specific needs of investors, and suppliers and end-users of technology across industries and continents.

Regional Eco Commerce hubs work closely with companies, professional bodies, trade associations, governments, and NGO's. Each Hub is part of CEC Global, a strategic international business alliance for Eco Commerce.

Effective diffusion of eco innovation is vital and invaluable resource to help the communities, businesses, investors, as well as policy leaders to understand the value and benefits of Eco Innovation.

Through integrated and independent business approach, CEC is pioneering to serve the global market delivering tremendous financial and environmental benefits to individuals and businesses, and creating shared value to stakeholders, organizations and their memberships, and communities.
